

The Big Blog

<http://blog.seattlepi.com/thebigblog/archives/237128.asp>

Seattle hotel markets 'anti-love' package

Not a fan of Valentine's Day?

You could be just the customer Hotel Max is looking for.

The Seattle hotel is hoping to sell you the "anti-love" experience. No date. No romance. Just you, a blow-up companion, cocktails and a grab bag of other items that might appeal to single women.

I said might. See if you think this description sounds like a fun way to spend Valentine's Day.

Singles and friends will embrace this holiday with a blow-up doll named John (nice enough to bring home to mom!), a copy of Chicken Soup for the Single Soul, Pussycat Dolls CD (yay for female independence!), a Max vibrator, VIP gift certificate to Seattle's single club Pink, in-room movie, cocktails ($20 food and beverage voucher for Red Fin), valet parking and a comfy room for the evening.

That's what comes with Hotel Max's anti-love package, being offered in February for those "revolting against Valentine's Day."

On the other hand, the hotel also offers a more traditional Valentine's Day package, complete with rose petals, wine and cupcakes.

Visit seattlepi.com's home page for more Seattle news. Contact Amy Rolph at amyrolph@seattlepi.com or on Twitter as @amyrolph and @bigblog.

Posted by Amy Rolph at January 26, 2011 4:08 p.m.

· Return to Seattle hotel markets 'anti-love' package

Photo by Getty Images